

Amendments to the Claims

1. (currently amended) ~~[[The]]~~ A method of using~~[[e]]~~ ~~[[of]]~~ immunoglobulins for the treatment of pigs infected with PRRS virus.

2. (currently amended) The method ~~immunoglobulins~~ of claim 1, wherein the immunoglobulins are obtained through the exhaustive vaccination of egg-laying hens SPF-type with an inactivated PRRS vaccine.

3. (currently amended) The method ~~immunoglobulins~~ of claim 2, wherein the immunoglobulins are obtained through the extraction of the aqueous phase of egg yolk.

4. (currently amended) The method ~~immunoglobulins~~ of claim 2~~[[3]]~~, wherein the immunoglobulins are obtained through the use of 0.001% sodium azide and 5% hydroxypropylmethylcellulose phthalate, and whose antibody title for PRRS should not be lower than 1:80 per each 0.050 ml.

5. (currently amended) The method ~~immunoglobulins~~ of claim 1~~[[4]]~~, wherein in which the quantity used for the PRRS virus treatment in pigs should not be lower than 0.4 ml per kg of weight, administered intramuscularly.

6. (currently amended) The method ~~immunoglobulins~~ of claim 1~~[[5]]~~, wherein the immunoglobulins are administered intramuscularly absorbed and then found in the blood flow of the treated animals.

7. (currently amended) The method ~~immunoglobulins~~ of claim 6, wherein the immunoglobulins are administered intramuscularly offer protection against PRRS virus when they are administered every 2 weeks.

Please cancel claim 8 without prejudice.

9. (new) The method of claim 1, wherein the immunoglobulins are obtained preferably from hens of the SPF type.